

Urban History Seminar: 2008–2009
Chicago History Museum
 1601 N. Clark Street
 Chicago, IL 60614-6038
 312 799 2012

September 18, 2008	Robert Bruegmann	University of Illinois at Chicago	What I learned about Sprawl since writing Sprawl: A Compact History (2005)
October 23, 2008	Margaret Lee	University of Wisconsin-Madison	Immigrant Spaces?: Transplanting Ethnic Enclaves to Chicago Suburbs
November 13, 2008	Matthew G. Lasner	Georgia State University	The Co-op Alternative: Multifamily Homeownership in the Postwar American City
December 11, 2008	Timothy Stewart-Winter	University of Chicago	Black Politics & Gay Rights: Urban Governance and Social Movements in Chicago, 1960s–1980s
January 22, 2008	Jill Van Newenhizen	Lake Forest College	Euclid's Elements and Burnham's Plan of Chicago
February 12, 2009	Malachy R. McCarthy	Claretian Missionaries USA Archives	Competing for the Mexican Immigrants in Chicago: The Protestant And Catholic Battle, 1900-1940
March 12, 2009	Joseph Schweiterman	DePaul University	Burnham, Bennett, and Beyond: Reflections on a Century of Planning In the Chicago Region
April 23, 2009	Lizabeth Cohen	Harvard University	Edward J. Logue and the Renewing of American Cities after World War II
May 7, 2009	Julia Foulkes	New School	Streets and Stages: Urbanization and the Arts after World War II

Michael H. Ebner
Lake Forest College

Ann Durkin Keating
North Central College

Russell L. Lewis
Chicago History Museum

D. Bradford Hunt
Roosevelt University

We encourage expressions of interest – from scholars early in their careers as well as more senior scholars –
 Who might wish to make a presentation during 2009–2010. Please contact: crovato@chicagohistory.org